FOREWORD

On January 1, 1986, the Agreement on Social Security between Canada and Barbados came into force.

This summary describes in general terms how the Agreement may help individuals qualify for Canadian or Barbadian benefits. It is intended for persons residing in Canada.

It should be noted that, in addition to the entitlement conditions for benefits outlined in this summary, other conditions may be stipulated in the social security laws of either country. Further information about the conditions for entitlement to Canadian benefits and how they affect a particular case may be obtained from any Client Service Centre of Income Security Programs Branch. The telephone number and address of the nearest Centre can be found in the federal government listing of the telephone directory under "Human Resources Development Canada."

Only the National Insurance Office of Barbados can provide specific information on the entitlement conditions for Barbadian benefits and how they affect a particular case. To avoid delays or loss of benefits, persons who think they may be eligible for one of the Barbadian benefits described in this summary should submit an application. Information on how to apply is given in the last page of this summary.

INTRODUCTION

The Agreement on Social Security between Canada and Barbados coordinates the operation of the Canadian and Barbadian programs which protect individuals in the event of old age, retirement, disability or death. It has three basic objectives:

- (1) to ease or eliminate restrictions on the payment of social security benefits abroad;
- (2) to eliminate situations in which a worker may have to contribute to the social security programs of both countries for the same work;
- (3) to assist migrants in qualifying for benefits based on the periods they have lived or worked in each country.

The Canadian benefits included in the Agreement are those paid under the Old Age Security program and the Canada Pension Plan. These benefits are described in pages 1 to 8.

The Barbadian benefits included in the Agreement are the old age, survivors' and invalidity pensions and the funeral grant payable under the National Insurance Scheme of Barbados. These benefits are described in pages 8 to 11.

CANADIAN OLD AGE SECURITY BENEFITS

Canada's Old Age Security Act provides for three benefits: the basic pension, the Guaranteed Income Supplement and the Spouse's Allowance.

The Old Age Security Pension

The basic Old Age Security pension is a monthly benefit paid to persons who have reached the age of 65 and who meet the residence requirements. For receipt of the pension in Canada, this requirement is a minimum of ten years of residence in Canada after reaching age 18. For indefinite receipt of the pension abroad (including the case of a person applying for a pension while residing abroad), the requirement is a minimum of 20 years of residence in Canada after reaching age 18. A person who is receiving a pension in Canada but who has not completed 20 years of residence may, on leaving Canada, receive the pension only for the month of departure and for the six following months.

Through the Agreement, an individual who has at least one year of residence in Canada, but not residence of sufficient length to be entitled to an Old Age Security pension, may use periods during which contributions have been paid or credited under the National Insurance Scheme of Barbados after reaching age 18 to satisfy the entitlement conditions for a pension. For example, a person who has resided in Canada for nine years after reaching age 18 may qualify for a pension payable in Canada if he or she has contributions which have been paid or credited to the National Insurance Scheme of Barbados for at least one year after reaching age 18.

As well, through the Agreement, a person who has at least one year of residence in Canada, but not the 20 years required for receipt of the Old Age Security pension abroad on an indefinite basis, may use periods during which contributions have been paid or credited under the National Insurance Scheme of Barbados after reaching age 18 to satisfy the 20-year condition.

The Guaranteed Income Supplement

The Guaranteed Income Supplement is a monthly benefit payable, in addition to an Old Age Security pension, to a beneficiary who has little or no income other than the basic Old Age Security pension. The supplement is essentially payable only to residents of Canada. However, if a recipient leaves Canada, it may be paid abroad for the month of departure and for the six following months.

The Spouse's Allowance

The Spouse's Allowance is a monthly benefit payable to the 60- to 64-year-old spouse of a beneficiary of the Guaranteed Income Supplement and to a widowed person in the same age group who has little or no personal income. At age 65, the Spouse's Allowance is replaced by the Old Age Security pension. At least ten years of residence in Canada after reaching age 18 are required to qualify for a Spouse's Allowance. Like the Guaranteed Income Supplement, the Spouse's Allowance is essentially payable only in Canada. However, if a recipient leaves Canada, it may be paid abroad for the month of departure and for the six following months.

Through the Agreement, an individual who has at least one year of residence in Canada, but not the ten years required to be entitled to a Spouse's Allowance, may use periods during which contributions have been paid or credited under the National Insurance Scheme of Barbados after reaching age 18 to satisfy the ten-year condition.

Calculating Old Age Security Benefits Under the Agreement

The amount of the Old Age Security pension payable under the Agreement is equal to 1/40th of a full pension for each complete year of residence in Canada after reaching age 18. It is calculated in the same way as is a partial pension under the Old Age Security Act if eligibility is established without recourse to an agreement.

The amount of the Spouse's Allowance is determined by the couple's income or, in the case of a widowed person, by the personal income of the beneficiary.

Payment of Old Age Security Benefits

Old Age Security benefits are paid by Human Resources Development Canada in Canadian funds directly to the beneficiary, whether he or she lives in Canada or abroad.

CANADA PENSION PLAN BENEFITS

The Canada Pension Plan provides benefits in the event of retirement, disability or death of a contributor. The Plan, which began operation in 1966, covers virtually all persons engaged in paid employment or self-employment in Canada, except in Quebec where a similar plan, the Quebec Pension Plan, is in effect.

Canada Pension Plan benefits may be paid anywhere in the world, without any restriction whatsoever.

The Canada Pension Plan Retirement Pension

A retirement pension is a monthly benefit payable to a contributor who has reached retirement age and who has made contributions to the Plan in at least one year.

The normal retirement age is 65. A person who has reached this age may receive a retirement pension even if he or she is still working. A retirement pension may also be paid to a contributor aged between 60 and 64 who has completely ceased paid employment or whose employment earnings, at an annual rate, do not exceed the amount of the maximum annual retirement pension payable to a person whose pension begins at age 65.

If an individual starts to receive a retirement pension before age 65, the pension is reduced by 0.5 percent for each month between the month the pension begins and the month of the person's 65th birthday. The reduction is permanent. Conversely, if the pension starts after the individual reaches age 65, it is increased in a comparable manner.

Canada Pension Plan Disability Benefits

A disability pension is a monthly benefit payable to a contributor who is disabled and who has made contributions to the Plan in at least five of the ten or in two of the three calendar years immediately preceding disablement.

A contributor is considered to be disabled if he or she has a physical or mental disability which is both severe and prolonged. "Severe" means that the individual cannot regularly pursue any substantially gainful occupation. "Prolonged" means that the disability is likely to be long continued and of indefinite duration, or is likely to result in death.

A monthly child's benefit is also payable for each dependent child of a disabled contributor. The child must be under age 18, or age 18 or older but under age 25 and in full-time attendance at school or university.

Through the Agreement, a person who has some periods of contributions to the Canada Pension Plan, but who has not made sufficient contributions in the years immediately preceding disablement, may use periods during which contributions have been paid or credited under the National Insurance Scheme of Barbados to satisfy the conditions for entitlement to a Canada Pension Plan disability benefit.

Canada Pension Plan Survivors' Benefits

A surviving spouse's pension is a monthly benefit payable to the surviving spouse of a deceased contributor who has made contributions to the Plan for a minimum period (between three and ten calendar years, depending on the age of the contributor at the time of death). Surviving spouse's pensions are payable on the same conditions to widows and widowers. They are payable even if the surviving spouse remarries.

The "surviving spouse of the contributor" is the person of the opposite sex living with the contributor in a conjugal relationship (whether or not there was a marriage) at the time of death or, if there is no such person, the legal spouse (even if that legal spouse was not living with the contributor at the time of death). If the surviving spouse and deceased contributor were not legally married, they must have lived together for at least one year.

To qualify for a benefit, a surviving spouse who is under age 35 at the time of the contributor's death must be caring for a child of the contributor or he or she must be disabled as defined by the Canada Pension Plan.

A monthly orphan's benefit is also payable for each dependent child of the deceased contributor. The child must be under age 18, or age 18 or older but under age 25 and in full-time attendance at school or university.

A death benefit is payable to the estate of a deceased contributor who has made contributions to the Plan for a minimum period (between three and ten calendar years, depending on his or her age at the time of death).

Through the Agreement, when a spouse or child is not entitled to a survivor's benefit because the deceased had not completed sufficient periods of contributions to the Canada Pension Plan, periods during which the deceased had paid or been credited with contributions under the National Insurance Scheme of Barbados may be used to satisfy the conditions for entitlement to a Canada Pension Plan survivor's benefit.

Calculating Canada Pension Plan Benefits Under the Agreement

The retirement pension, the surviving spouse's pension payable at age 65 and the death benefit are based on the earnings of the contributor while under the Canada Pension Plan and on the number of years of contributions to the Plan. The disability pension and the surviving spouse's pension payable before age 65 are composed of two parts: a benefit related to the earnings of the contributor and a flat-rate benefit. Benefits paid on behalf of a contributor's children are all flat-rate.

If entitlement to a Canada Pension Plan benefit is established under the Agreement, the flat-rate component is calculated in proportion to the periods during which contributions were made to the Plan relative to the minimum period of contributions required for entitlement to the benefit. The earnings-related component is calculated in the same way as is a benefit which is paid without recourse to the agreement.

Payment of Canada Pension Plan Benefits

Canada Pension Plan benefits are paid by Human Resources Development Canada in Canadian funds directly to the beneficiary, whether he or she lives in Canada or abroad.

BARBadian BENEFITS INCLUDED IN THE AGREEMENT

Old Age Contributory Pension

A Barbadian old age contributory pension is a monthly benefit payable to a person who has reached age 65 and who has paid or been credited with contributions to the National Insurance Scheme of Barbados for at least 500 weeks (ten years). An individual who has less than 500 weeks of contributions may qualify for a lump-sum grant, provided that contributions have been made for at least 50 weeks (one year).

The amount of benefit payable is calculated on the basis of the person's previous insurable earnings and the number of contributions under the Scheme.

Through the Agreement, a person who has made contributions for at least 50 weeks to the National Insurance Scheme of Barbados, but not for the 500 weeks required for entitlement to an old age pension, may use periods of contributions to the Canada Pension Plan to satisfy the 500-week condition.

Invalidity Pension

An invalidity pension is a monthly benefit payable to a person under age 65 who is permanently incapable of undertaking further employment because of disability. To be eligible for a pension, the individual must have paid or been credited with contributions to the National Insurance Scheme for at least 150 weeks (three years). A person who has contributed for less than 150 weeks may receive a lump-sum grant if he or she has completed at least 50 weeks (one year) of contributions.

The amount of the benefit payable is calculated on the basis of the person's previous insurable earnings and the number of contributions under the Scheme.

Through the Agreement, a person who has made contributions for at least 50 weeks to the National Insurance Scheme of Barbados, but not for the 150 weeks required for entitlement to an invalidity pension, may use periods of contributions to the Canada Pension Plan to satisfy the 150-week condition.

Survivors' Pension

In order for a surviving spouse and/or children to be entitled to a survivor's benefit, the deceased spouse must have been receiving an invalidity or old age benefit at the time of death, or must have made sufficient contributions to the National Insurance Scheme to have been entitled to receive such a benefit.

Generally, survivors' benefits are only paid to widows and orphans. In order for a widower to qualify for a benefit, he must be an invalid at the time of his wife's death, he must have been married for at least three years, he must have been wholly or mainly maintained by his wife, and he must have no income of his own from any source.

A widow 50 years of age or over who had been married for at least three years prior to the death of her husband may qualify for a pension for life or until she becomes entitled to an old age pension in her own right. An invalid widow under age 50 who had been married for at least three years prior to the death of her husband may qualify for a pension during the period of invalidity. All other widows may receive a pension for one year only.

Children are entitled to survivors' benefits if they are under age 16 and are unmarried; if a child is disabled, entitlement continues as long as invalidity lasts.

Payment of survivors' pensions ceases on marriage, remarriage or cohabitation.

In addition to a survivor's pension or lump-sum grant, a flat-rate funeral grant may be paid to the person who is responsible for the costs of the funeral of the deceased person.

Through the Agreement, when a spouse or child is not entitled to a survivor's benefit under the National Insurance Scheme of Barbados because the deceased had not completed sufficient periods of contributions, periods during which the deceased contributed to the Canada Pension Plan may be used to satisfy the conditions for entitlement to a pension or funeral grant. In all instances, however, the deceased must have made contributions to the National Insurance Scheme for at least 50 weeks.

Calculating Barbadian Benefits Under the Agreement

If entitlement to a Barbadian pension is established by using the provisions of the Agreement, the benefit payable will be determined on the basis of the ratio of the periods of contributions to the National Insurance Scheme of Barbados to the minimum period of contributions required under Barbadian legislation for entitlement to the pension in question.

Payment of Barbadian Benefits

Barbadian currency control regulations place restrictions on the payment of Barbadian benefits to persons living outside Barbados. Through the Agreement, these restrictions will be lifted for persons who have been subject to the Old Age Security Act or the Canada Pension Plan. In particular, Barbadian benefits will be paid by the National Insurance Office of Barbados directly to persons resident in Canada in Canadian dollars. Persons living in a country other than Canada or Barbados will receive Barbadian benefits either in the currency of that country or in any other currency that is freely exchanged in that country.

DETERMINING THE APPLICABLE LEGISLATION

Without an agreement, a person might be required to contribute both to the Canada Pension Plan and to the National Insurance Scheme of Barbados for the same work. The Agreement on Social Security between Canada and Barbados eliminates such situations of “dual coverage”.

General Rule

Under the Agreement, an employee is normally subject only to the legislation of the country in which he or she works and is, therefore, exempt from contributions under the legislation of the other country in respect of the same work.

Temporary Postings in Barbados

An exception to the general rule applies in the case of a “detached worker” (e.g., an employee who normally works in Canada and is covered under the Canada Pension Plan in respect of that work, and who is sent by his or her employer to work in Barbados on a temporary basis). Under the Agreement, such a worker is able to continue his or her coverage under the Canada Pension Plan for a period of 24 months and, while this coverage remains in effect, is exempt from social security contributions to the Barbados system in respect of the same work.

Government Employment

Another exception to the general rule applies to persons in government employment for one of the countries performing their duties in the other country. They are normally subject to the social security laws of the latter country only if they are citizens or permanent residents of that country.

Residence Under the Old Age Security Act

In addition to the coverage provisions just described, the Agreement between Canada and Barbados contains another provision which ensures that a person who is covered under the Canada or Quebec Pension Plan while residing in Barbados is also covered by the Old Age Security Act which is usually based only on residence in Canada. Thus, during that period, complete coverage is afforded under Canadian legislation. Conversely, a person who is residing and working in Canada and is subject to the social security legislation of Barbados does not have those periods considered as periods of residence for purposes of the Old Age Security Act.

MORE INFORMATION CONCERNING CONTRIBUTIONS

Revenue Canada, Taxation administers the provisions of the Canada Pension Plan relative to the making of contributions.
